Mrs. Jessie Louder of Otisfield has gone to Beverly, Mass., and will spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Estella Irish. She and her daughter, Aurieta and son George went in the past few years as chauffeur. They found a lot of snow all the way and there was a heavy fall of snow last Wednesday making good sleighing in the Garden City.

Orin Stone and Harold Thompson returned to the St. Lawrence University this week after a vacation during the holidays.

“Uncle” John Haselton of Westbrook will appear as usual at the Clerks Ball on Tuesday evening, Feb. 13. John has been promoter here the past few years, but modern jazz has lightened his work to a marked degree. All are glad to meet him each year and he also is pleased to visit the home town.

Another blizzard Monday brought about seven inches of snow. Highways were blocked, trains delayed and social functions booked for that evening lightly attended. The open bus with Francis Ames at the wheel kept a good path open between the two villages with no serious delays. The commercial snow plows scraped the side walls early Tuesday morning and the business district dug out with shovels before nine o'clock. Severe weather was experienced along the coast with fifteen inches of snow at Portland. Morning papers from Boston arrived here in the evening.

Juliet Perry went to the St. Marie hospital at Lewiston Friday and underwent an operation for appendicitis Saturday. Her condition is reported favorable for recovery.

The weather man gave us another wallop Sunday morning by driving the mercury down to 26 below zero and even lower in spots. About 7 above zero was a fair maximum temperature during the day, with zero in the evening. A chimney burning out Monday in the Crocker building occupied on the first floor by Fred Panef's Quick Lunch, required attention of Giles Frost and others of the fire department.

Tickets for the Fleemen's Ball on Jan. 30 have been distributed among members of the department and thorough canvass is underway. All committees are to do team work and plan to give one of the regular times for 1925.

The next meeting of the W. R. C. will be Thursday evening, Jan. 13, when several candidates will take the degree. A buffet lunch will be served and those not solicited will carry a plate of refreshments.

Cards have been received announcing the engagement of Aurieta Ivan Johnson of Syracuse, N. Y., and Doris Longley of Norway. Miss Longley is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon M. Longley and teaching French and English at Hackettstown, N. J.

WESTERN MAINE POULTRY SHOW

Officers: Pres.—Ernest P. Crockett, South Paris. Vice Pres.—Lee M. Smith, Norway. Treas.—George W. Haskell, South Paris. Supt. of Show Room—Harry E. Lovejoy, Norway. Assistant Supt.—O. W. Eggleston, Lyndonville, Vt.

The 13th annual exhibition of the Western Maine Poultry Association was held at Norway Opera House, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Approximately 360 birds were displayed, at least 150 more entered failed to appear owing to the blizzard and other unforeseen causes. Competent observers declare the quality of exhibition exceeds that shown in past years with a mark considerably above the average up state shows.

O. W. Eggleston of Lyndonville, Vt., was the largest exhibitor with a hundred birds. He has followed this show the past five years and generally drops in here from the Maine State Exhibition. The Coffin Farms at Mechanic Falls featured Rhode Island Reds and displayed fine specimens which won many prizes. Competition was keen in this class with some 50 birds entered.

Frank Baker of Welchville made his first appearance at this show with a string of high class white Wyandottes. The birds attracted considerable favorable comment. Frank C. Clark, a veteran in the game, had a fine display of prize winners.

Howard D. Smith, 2nd, aged 11 years, son of Lee M. Smith, vice president of the Association, exhibited about a dozen clean cut barred Rocks in a large class featuring some thirty of the breed. Competition was keen, but the young poultry raiser won first on hen, third and fourth on pullet and first on pen. The boy has natural talent for this game, and secured his points in a large measure from observation and personal experience with various breeds, beginning with Japanese Silkies.

Lester Richardson, who has a poultry project in the agricultural course at Norway High School and wintering many birds, won second on pen with Barred Rocks. Guy C. Buck, Crockett Record, Ernest Crockett and Frank Taylor all of South Paris had large exhibits and their goods carried away ribbons and specials.

House On Brown Street Burned

Early Monday morning fire destroyed the barn, shed and the dwelling owned and occupied by Henry Bedard on Brown street. Loss is partially covered by insurance of $500 on the buildings with no protection on the furniture. A few garments and small household goods snatched hurriedly before smoke, drove away the helpers, is practically all that was saved. Mr. Bedard considers the house well insured and will remove the charred wreckage, expecting to rebuild on the spot next Spring.

When discovered by Mrs. Bedard not far from 4 o'clock, the barn roof was falling with embers dropping on the shed and main house. Their two small children and the mother were removed to the home of Archie Frechette and Mr. Bedard, with the help of neighbors, endeavored to stop the spreading flames.

The department laid two lines of hose from the corner of Winter and Paris street, one thousand feet from the blaze and fought hard in a zero temperature; water pressure was good. The Meader house within two rods of the fire was saved, but a lucky change in the wind probably saved it. She opened her home where the ice covered firemen dried their garments and found shelter from the intensely cold wind. A. F. Hall's family served hot coffee and doughnuts.

The dwelling was a story and a half and in good repair. It had recently made the last payment on the purchase price and planned many improvements for the future. It is understood Mr. Carroll and Mr. Jellerson of the Carroll-Jellerson Shoe Co., the foremen and shop assistants, have contributed generously to offset the loss so far as is possible with money.

A good sum of money in a trunk was saved by Orville Palmer and George Emerson, who climbed into a smoke filled room and recovered the trunk.

Frederic E. Boothby, who died at his home in Waterville on Sunday, Jan. 7, was one of the builders of Maine. The public and business activities of his long life of service were almost wholly devoted to advancing the material and cultural interests of the State.

As the general passenger agent of Maine's principal railroad, Col. Boothby did much for the building up of the great tourist business which has proved so essential a factor in the prosperity of the State. He was one of the founders of the Maine musical festival.

Col. Boothby had served as mayor of two cities, Portland and Waterville. His services as president of the State Board of Trade were marked by zeal and untiring labors.

Personally Col. Boothby was one of the most charming and lovable of men. He liked men and delighted in the companionship of his fellows and he was liked in return by those with whom he associated. Few Maine citizens have enjoyed a wider circle of acquaintance.

In 1914 Julian Brown of Norway met Col. Boothby and when he found that he was from Norway and learned who his father and mother were (Ephraim and Jane Brown) said, “I was born in Norway and knew your father and mother well. I was born in the Oleetoe Brown house and your mother was the nurse.”

The history of Norway says that Col. Boothby's father was a blacksmith in the village and afterwards moved to Paris. He attended the schools at South Paris and several terms of the Norway Liberal Institute at Norway. His father moved to Waterville in 1857.

The funeral of Col. Boothby was held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 from his residence at Waterville. Rev. John H. Yates officiated. St. Mark's Episcopal Church, officiated.

“I'm Should Certainly Make Claim John Keetz of ‘Aches and Pains’” The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has offered $1500 in prizes for improved methods of killing animals for food. At James Pledge's butcher shop in Norway, Me., the butcher of that town says Alton Luck, “kills pigs without the squeal” by using a small calibre rifle. Seems the perfect method.

John A. Woodman: “I didn't ride in a sleigh last winter; haven't fished for ice for some years. I've got too cold and tired to do it.” “Mother and I” are to have a sleigh ride after a little more snow falls.

Modern Woodmen Norway Camp Modern Woodmen of America's officers were installed Wednesday evening by Installing Officer G. Wood of Bangor assisted by District Deputy E. C. Walker of Bangor. Refreshments were served. Officers installed: Consul—A. G. Bagniere. Advisor—Maurice E. Prince. Clerk—A. L. Curtis. Banker—John W. Richardson. Secretary—Edwin W. Hopkins. Trustees—Percy H. Nevers, Harry W. Luck, M. Lovejoy.

BASKET BALL

Norway High 38; Bridgton Academy 18. Norway played their first home game Friday evening before a large enthusiastic bunch of supporters and hung up baskets in regular order. Bridgton with a huskie quintet made a formidable appearance against their much smaller opponent turning the match into a machinery turning speed ovalade. The bulky football stars and the Norway fleet foots made the visitors appear anchored at times.

The new rules pertaining to the foul lines and technical fouls were enforced by referee Austin. Personal fouls were common with Norway the leading candidate in the process of elimination. Practically the entire fighting force was called into action before the game ended.

Ward, the sturdy right forward was the most accurate under the basket for the Academy outfit, with Holmes at center not many laps behind. The boys were far ahead on shots from the foul line and a ringer located out of many chances.

The Academy's long passes were nearly executed, but no lengthy session was permitted by the wiry Norwegians. Covered their opponents quickly and effectively.

Lewis King, the speedy right forward was the high card kid for the home outfit. He found the hoop 12 times from the floor and possessed a keen eye for the stunt. Glenn Andrews landed 3 baskets, one coming especially from an unusual angle. Hassell made a good record from the foul line and looked good in the push displays during their passing bills. “Spike” Smith, “Kimball” Palmer, La Franke and Nevers worked their respective positions in regular style with a burst of speed whenever necessary.

The team has improved greatly since Coach Nevers gathered the boys around his paternal wings. While individual playing is encouraged, team work is featured as necessary for the best results. The big idea is growing fruit on every branch, for the subs are working like regulars with no dividing line visible. A pecking up is expected occasionally for the schedule carries teams well known for pep and good sportsmanship. While not in any sense bragging, they confidently expect to close the season at least on a 50-50 basis.

The cheering and perfection located on the stage has been organized and did effective work during the game. Prof. Brown and Eldith Joslin led the cheering.

Dancing followed and a large crowd remained to enjoy the time until midnight. True's orchestra furnished the music.

Summary of the game: BRIDGTON. Ricker, H. 5 FG Pts. Ward, H. 5 0 10. King, H. 2 0 4. Christie, H. 2 0 4. Linacott, H. 0 0 0. Greenleaf, H. 0 0 0. Totals 18 0 18.

NORWAY. Palmer, H. 1 FG Pts. King, H. 1 0 2. Kimball, H. 1 0 2. Andrews, H. 3 0 6. Lafranke, H. 0 0 0. Nevers, H. 0 0 0. Totals 6 0 12.

High School Basketball Saturday Night. Westbrook High School will oppose Norway High School at basket ball in Norway Opera House, Saturday evening, Jan. 13. Game called at 8 o'clock. A snappy game is predicted for both quintets are going smoothly and should travel close during the entire session. Coach has the Norway contingent under his care and is perfecting several new plays to be shown later.

Dancing at Grange Hall after the game by Howard Shaw and his orchestra.

Girls' Game. Norway 28; Gould's Academy 16. The Norway girls made their first public appearance on the home surface in the preliminary to the boys contest Friday evening with Gould's Academy's first quintet for opponents.

Considering the varied surface the game was fast and hotly contested with both teams working up into every move. Florence Hadley displayed great skill in shooting baskets from the floor with her credit, many being of the difficult kind. She closely guarded. She also scored 2 points from the foul line. Dorothy Newcomb played against one of the fastest girl ball players seen on the Norway court and her clever work was in a large way responsible for the visitors small run at the end of the game. Hall and Lewis at center played a tricky game and busy every minute. Others in the line up handled the sphere with precision, especially in passing stunts.

Captain—Lewis King. Manager—Manford Palmer. Coach—Leroy Luce.

Norway vs. Algonquins. Professional basketball is on the card at Norway Opera House Wednesday evening Jan. 17. Manager McCready has secured the fast Algonquins of Lewiston to oppose the Norway Professionals. The team outfit is a smooth performing bunch and will go after the baskets with a rush good to look upon. Game called at 8:30.

Seats checked at 5:00. Dancing after the game, music Shaver Orchestra. Now lovers of fast sport make a point to attend and encourage the citizens who are striving to furnish clean entertainment during the winter. This is not a get-rich-quick scheme of the disinterested in expense, while showing local people regular professional floor tactics. “Say it with tickets.”

Retiring Foreman Presented With Valuable Ring. Harry Glidden severed his connection with the Norway Shoe Co., Saturday the 6th, and returned to his home in Auburn. Several months ago he came to town as foreman of the finishing and packing departments, later he took over the making room, returning to the former situation a short time ago, filling both positions in a painstaking and praiseworthy manner and giving satisfaction to all concerned.

Mr. Glidden is a thorough shoe maker, a firm, yet considerate and just foreman and an all round good fellow, a combination hard to beat and one which especially commendable to those who worked under him. Wishing to part his sentiment in a more concrete form, at noon on Friday, the 5th, the members of these departments massed in the packing room and presented him with a solid gold ring set with a beautiful Maine tourmaline. Though taken unprepared he responded feelingly with a few well chosen words at the conclusion of which three rounds of cheers brought the occasion to a happy close.

It will be remembered that Mr. Glidden was a resident of the town some twenty-five years ago, and his old friends as well as the new regret his departure.

The School Budget

The school system of any town is a business enterprise. It pays the largest dividends of any industry in the world. It cannot be measured in dollars and cents but is really measured in terms of men and women.

It is the policy of your school department to conduct the work in the open. There are no secret agreements and there will be none. Four school officials believe that the people should know where the money is to go and why it is to go there. They are presenting the proposed budget to the people in order that they may examine it and understand what the schools are asking for. As it would be impossible to discuss it all at one time they are presenting a part each week.

Common Schools Account. The common school appropriations is always the largest in the school budget. Under this head comes the money for teachers' salaries, fuel, janitor and transportation. It has nothing to do with supplies, repairs, texts or any of the other elements entering into the cost of educating the pupil in the common school. It will be seen that the total spent in the common school account, divided by the number of pupils in the elementary schools will not give the accurate cost of the child's education unless the proportionate part of the texts, repairs, superintendence, supplies, improvement league and special accounts are taken into consideration.

Proposed Budget. Teachers Salaries, $17,135.64. Fuel, 1,872.00. Janitor, 50.00. Conveyance (estimated), 4,000.00. Total, $24,157.64.

Estimated Revenue: From State, $6,000.00. From other sources, 2,000.00. Balance (estimated), 3,000.00. Total deductions, $9,000.00. Amount necessary to raise, $15,157.64. Amount appropriated, 1924-25, 10,000.00. Balance Jan. 31, 1921, 3,859.63. Amount appropriated, 1925-26, 10,000.00.

The teachers' salary list is the largest single item in the budget. Paris has 21 common school teachers and the corps is a good one, but the efficiency of a school system depends on the strength of the weakest teacher in the system. In order to keep our schools at the proper level, we must have strong teachers and in order to get strong teachers, we must pay them a fair salary. Our neighboring town of Norway is paying $25-$30 for the same grade of work which Paris is paying $18-$22 for. Are we going to train teachers for some other town? We are not.

Again the teacher works 36 weeks, but must live 52 weeks. Suppose we pay her a salary of $32 per week for 36 weeks, or $792. If we allow that she is entitled to two weeks vacation in the summer, we are paying her a salary of $15.84 per week. A good teacher must put a part of her time each summer into special preparation for her next year's work. This eliminates her from doing any other work in the summer.

Fuel is very high and no one can tell which way it is going. When coal is around $15 per ton, it means that our fuel bill will increase. That is the position we are in today.

The school board and the superintendent have figured this budget down to the irreducible minimum. The amount given is the amount they must have in order to run the schools as they should be run.

Officers of Sons of Veterans Installed. Joshua L. Chamberlain Camp, No. 69, held its regular meeting Friday night, Jan. 5th. There was a good attendance as there was bus service from Norway. Five new members were mustered in. After the muster Division Press Correspondent Charles W. Berry of Brunswick installed the newly elected officers.

Brother Berry delivered the installation in a very efficient manner. The Camp officers for the ensuing year are: Commander—C. F. Riddon. Senior Vice Commander—Elmer Stiles. Junior Vice Commander—Arthur W. Cole. Camp Counsel—H. V. Cole, S. G. Ordway, W. B. Jackson.

Secretary—C. L. Buck. Treasurer—George Eastman. Chairman—S. C. Ordway. Color Bearer—George Super. Inside Guard—Jesse Edwards. Outside Guard—Arthur W. Cole. Camp Counsel—H. V. Cole, S. G. Ordway, W. B. Jackson.

The following standing committees were appointed for the year by the Commander: Investigation Com.—George Ayer, Alfred Monk, H. V. Cole. Press Correspondent—H. V. Cole. Visiting Committee—S. C. Ordway, F. B. Wiggins, F. Edwards. Commander Riddon appointed Brother Clifford Seothorne as his special aid to look after the military activities of the Camp. Under the Good of the Order, remarks were made by several brothers. Brother Berry delivered a message from Division Ed's which was very interesting to the members present.

A buffet lunch was served by an able committee and a general good time was enjoyed by all. There will be another muster at the next regular meeting, January 19th.

Daughters of Veterans Entertained. One of the most enjoyable events of the past week was the campfire given by Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent, Daughters of Veterans of Norway, at Grange Hall, South Paris, Wednesday evening, Jan. 8. The guests were Joshua L. Chamberlain Camp, Sons of Veterans, South Paris, and the members of the Grand Army organizations. Special guests were George E. Gay of Augusta, department commander of the Grand Army, Annie M. Arnold of Augusta, department commander of the Grand Army, and Lilla P. Rice of Lewiston, senior vice president, and Rose Benson Minott of Lewiston, past department president. A supper was served to about 125 after the arrival of the evening train. After this an informal program was given in the upper hall Commander Charles P. Riddon of Joshua L. Chamberlain Camp presiding. Prayer was offered by Rev. H. G. McClauffin, Ernest Campbell gave a vocal solo and there were selections by an orchestra. Remarks were made by the visitors, and others who spoke were Rev. Mr. McClauffin, Commander W. S. Starbird of Wm. K. Kimball Post, G. A. R., and Mrs. Elsie Riddon, president of Blake Tent.

Paris Lodge, K. and A. M., at its annual meeting elected the following officers: W. M.—William L. Frothingham. S. W.—A. F. Stevens. P. M.—Robert Henshaw. Treas.—William P. Morton. Sec.—Harold G. Fletcher. E. D.—Robert P. Wise. J. D.—Donald P. Chapman. Com. at Finance—Charles H. George, Albert W. Walker, Arthur E. Poir, and W. S. Starbird, Walter H. Gray. (Continued on pages 8 and 10)

YOU CAN'T TELL MUCH ABOUT A TIRE BY ITS LOOKS

Take the Kelly Kant Slip Cord for example—it looks very much like an ordinary tire, but in reality it is quite extraordinary. It is the greatest combination of safety, service and value that the tire world has ever known.

If you are looking for tire value, let us show you the Kelly Cord.

ROOSEVELT HIGHWAY

The Theodore Roosevelt International Highway is the second most important artery of tourist traffic into Maine. This fact cannot be denied and furthermore, if the road were improved the traffic over it would be increased many times. Maine is losing thousands upon thousands of dollars annually because of the present poor condition of this great trunk line.

The State Highway Department is facing a difficult task in trying with the money it has to expend to keep a building program going in every section of Maine. It has done so, however, and today the majority of the worst sections of the trunk highways have been improved and are now quite passable, while existing contracts for construction will complete many more of these bad spots and connect many other pieces of State road which have been put down during the past few years.

The Roosevelt Highway has more of a claim for attention than the majority of roads in the State; in fact, it is the one outstanding stretch of main thoroughfare which demands immediate improvement. Not only is it a great tourist highway, but it is the only artery of traffic for transportation through the section that it covers.

All of the territory from Portland to Naples depends upon this highway for practically everything, for the country is served by no steam or electric railroads, nor by any steamboat line. Naples has a summer steamboat service, but this is only for a short period of time. Therefore this road has to be used for the transportation of freight and people back and forth between Portland, the trading center and all the towns along the route. This, in itself, is a sufficient reason why the road should be constructed at the earliest possible moment and should be of a hard surface type in order that it may be used at all seasons of the year.

Thousands of tourists are now avoiding Maine because of the condition of this thoroughfare. They go up into the White Mountains and would gladly return home by way of the Roosevelt Highway if it were in good condition. As it is, however, they turn at North Conway and go directly south to Portsmouth, N. H., thus avoiding Maine entirely. On the other hand if the Roosevelt Highway were built tourists would come into Maine as far as Bridgton and then from there would go across country to Harrison, Norway, to the various beauty spots throughout that delightful country. They would also come down to Naples and thence go across to Poland Spring, to Lewiston, Auburn and the points of interest in that great territory. Others would prefer to continue for the entire distance over the Roosevelt Highway, and come to Portland, possibly finding Maine such a delightful place that they would decide to extend their stay in it and go east, following the many excellent highways that are now penetrating every section of the State.

It is possible that the road might return west from Portland over the Atlantic Highway to Portsmouth, Boston and points beyond. In any event the whole State would benefit by the immediate construction of this important route.

The State is now building the section between the eastern end of Moose Pond Bridge and the Bridgton and Sweden road, a distance of about three miles. Something should be done at once toward reconstructing the Moose Pond Bridge and surfacing the stretch of highway westward to the improved piece through Fryeburg. The towns of Naples and Casco are doing a fine piece of work, in rebuilding in conjunction with the State, the very dangerous bridge across Crooked River. It is only fair that the State should now do something to improve the highway between South Casco and Naples Village. This is a stretch of about six miles of the poorest road between Portland and Fryeburg. The section between Naples and Bridgton is also getting very bad.

The State cannot be expected to build all of this highway at once, although many prominent persons feel that this should be done. The State should, however, let contracts for construction during the coming Spring and Summer of the Moose Pond section and also a long stretch between Naples and South Casco and every effort should be made to fill in the other gaps just as rapidly as possible, so that this most important thoroughfare may be entirely rebuilt within the next two or three years and the State may reap the rich reward which will come from its completion.

GRABBING HABIT

The habit of grabbing the biggest apple or largest piece of cake is typical of childhood, but some people do not outgrow it. You can see signs of it almost everywhere.

If you go into a crowded railway car you will find several people who have camped down in a double seat and who place bags or coats on the space that someone else should take. Other passengers dislike to disturb such a person, and frequently such a one will monopolize a double seat for some time before any one may demand a chance to share it. Many people who ordinarily have good manners will do such things out of thoughtlessness. But in other cases it represents some survival of the spirit of the boy who snatches the big apple. Those who have the true feeling of courtesy are as reluctant to grab more than their share of comfort, as they are to let the train of their lives or other things considered boish.

TROUBLE IN THE HOME

The great trouble is not with the schools, but with the homes. The tendency now seems to be to leave all the training of the child for the public school teacher. In this day of specialization, when the bread is baked outside the home, the milk comes to the door in bottles, the clothes are bought ready made, and even the music is ground out of a graphophone, and the good night stories come over the radio, it would seem that parents would have a great deal of time to devote to the training of their little children. This does not seem to be the case, however. The modern tendency in the training of children seems to be "let George do it." George, of course, is the public teacher who must train the child in morals and manners, look after his physical welfare, see that his teeth are brushed, watch out for defects of vision, have him weighed regularly. If he runs down physically, it is the fault of the teacher. It is due to the care of his parents. It is the time of the parent.

HEALTHY MINDED PEOPLE

Communities are making a big effort in these times to secure physical health both for the children and older folks. Physical training and instruction in hygiene, health centers and board of health work, are removing many bad conditions and showing people how to take care of themselves.

But some folks of a nervous and introspective temperament have, yet, acquired a full degree of mental health and they injure themselves by worries about big things and little. Doctors and others frequently tell such persons that they must exercise more will power and suggest to themselves healthful and confident thoughts which will assist them to meet the difficulties of life bravely and not fret over imaginary troubles. Many people are greatly helped by this philosophy.

There are many others who find it difficult to command their own thoughts. The more they try to banish melancholy, suggestions the more these morbid ideas return. People of that type can usually find a remedy for their troubles in a new and interesting form of activity. It is amazing how downhearted people will see life in entirely different aspect, when they take hold of something that really interests them. If they have a fondness for music, athletics, cards, dancing or social life, such diversions will often revolutionize their point of view. Their thoughts have been circulating in too narrow a round, and some change of attention will set healthful mental currents in motion and assist them to see life in a normal way.

It is worth a good deal to people to keep a healthy minded outlook. The folks who greet the world with a smile and who enter cheerfully into the activities and radiate sunshine are the ones who succeed in business and make friendships.

STUFFY HOUSES

People who live in Arctic climates rarely get colds and other ills that winter winds are supposed to bring. They be on the stimulus of the zero air and they thrive on the stimulation of the chilly temperature. The majority of people persist in living through the winter in tightly closed houses. They are afraid of the least breath of fresh air. Even if the weather is mild, they rarely open doors and windows. Factories and work rooms are often without proper ventilation. If the managers suggest that more air would brighten up the workers the chilly ones protest.

People living in this stuffy atmosphere are in peril of disease and some slight exposure may give them a severe cold that runs into pneumonia or bronchitis. If people would only take more pains to ventilate and take out door exercise the majority of the diseases of winter could be avoided.

A little boy started to eat breakfast before he had washed his face and hands. His mother scolded him about it. "It don't make men dirty to sleep," he grumbled.

A man left a note for his employer, saying he had gone to Kansas City to see the play, "The Bird of Pair a Dice."

James Kimball and family entertained John Henry Hazelton of Portland from Friday until Monday morning when Roy Wardwell took him to North Waterford where he took the stage for Norway to return by train to his home.

Hazelton attended the installation of Officers of Round Mountain Grange at their hall at Hunts Corner Saturday. He was a charter member of this Grange and spent a very happy day meeting old friends, renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. He was given a hearty welcome by the Grange and his many friends appreciate the effort which he made to meet with them. Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Irving Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cummings and George Cummings and had a pleasant visit with Mr. Hazelton there. His visit was much enjoyed by all and they hope to meet with him many more times in the future. Mr. Kimball seems to have got the better of the trouble he has had with several large boils on the back of his head and neck and is out and around as usual. Mrs. Kimball is in some what better health than she has been for several years.

TELEPHONE MANNERS

Although telephones have been in common use for 25 years, yet many people seem not to have learned how to handle them in a courteous way, even though such folks may be extremely polite and smooth in society.
The most disagreeable phase in telephone usage is the habit of many people on party lines of using a phone for long conversations. While women on the whole have more finished manners than men, yet in monopolizing telephone lines they are more conspicuous. Anyway there are some women who will gossip a long time over mere trifles, while others needing the line for some pressing matters of business must wait until the talkers have exhausted their subjects and are out of breath.

If you ask such persons to give up a line, they may retort angrily that they have paid for the phone and have a right to use it all they wish to. Others however are more considerate and will yield it gladly on learning that some one else wants it. People should not hesitate to ask for a line if it has been monopolized too long.

Some employees of business houses who are supposed to answer telephone calls, have a very bored manner in doing it that repels people. A concern can do much to win favor by training its employees to answer calls in an interested way, which makes it seem as if they appreciated being called.

It is easy to give an unfavorable impression by a curt and abrupt telephone manner. A pleasant and hearty voice over a telephone is as winning as a warm smile and cordial handshake. The cultivation of the same has been one step that has helped many people win success and friendships. It would be well for some irritable people to remember that telephone operators are human and are doing work requiring nervous strain and close attention, and must occasionally make slips.

Youth Will Not Cut Cord Wood
Hudson Knight of South Paris visited our office last Friday. He had come to Norway to see about getting some wood and to advertise a "speed" sleigh which he does not need. He has plenty of standing wood on the old farm but is unable to get it cut and hauled.
"Somehow," he says, "the young men won't cut cord wood, they wear good clothes, smoke cigars and live somehow, just how don't know but they won't cut cord wood."
Mr. Knight was 38 years old July 31st last passed. He has annually paid for a copy of the Norway Advertiser for the past 41 years.
"I didn't walk over as I used to but came on the bus; walk and work some each day but don't saw wood as it pulls on my breath."

Social at the Jackson Home
On Wednesday evening, Jan. 3, a group of people both young and old, who attend the Baptist church gathered to go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Jackson for an evening of sociability and a good time. Some went on snowshoes, others walked and others rode.

About eight o'clock they all gathered around for a game of slip the ring. Several other games were played among them. "Return what you borrow" which caused much merriment for all.
A treat of apples was indulged in after which they all gathered around for a good sing of hymns and everybody joined in the singing which was greatly enjoyed by all. Then came the treat of hot buttered popped corn.
As it was growing late the guests departed saying they had had the best time ever and resolving to come again.

Haywood Club Annual

The Haywood Club consisting of the Ladies of Crockett Ridge and Millettville held their annual Gentlemen's night at the home of Mrs. Will Young on Wednesday, Jan. 3. Despite the snowy day the ladies gathered in the afternoon and the books were audited and approved and the year voted a successful one in every way.
After a social hour the gentlemen to set tables and prepare for the oyster stew banquet. The cozy brick farm house buzzed with the happy crowd and soon the children came home from school and the men from their chores. The stew was a royal one disproving the old saying "too many cooks spoil the broth." The victrola was in evidence by spells and the A. M. Dunham outfit played to Cheryl Noble at the piano; many times vocal solos, duets, and full choruses. Before they realized it was nearing midnight and still snowing but goodbyes had to be said and a steady stream of sleighs wended their way homeward after a genuine old fashioned good time; the kind we never forget.

When some people are lonesome, it indicates they have a secret to tell and are looking for someone to tell it to.
It isn't sufficient for a political speaker to take his coat off; if he stirs his audience, he must take some hide off.

THE OLD GRAVE YARDS

We were pleased to see that some one is interested in having the old neglected graves and grave yards cared for. We trust if the descendants and friends cannot do it that the town will at least see that the bushes are cut, the grass mowed, and the stones if any righted.

In Norway in the early summer the burying ground on Frost Hill sadly needed the bushes cut and the one in the Shedd neighborhood needed work done. This may have been remedied.
It is too much to leave this work year after year to one of the relatives to do. A fair way would be "to take turns" or form a permanent fund, to be used when needed.

Waterford Elm Vale Cemetery Trust Fund

Jan. 6, 1923
To the Editor of the Norway Advertiser:
Your article in the Norway Advertiser of Jan. 5 relative to neglected graves in our Oxford County Cemeteries opens the way to the very thing the board of Cemetery Commissioners had in view; that is publicity, to call facts home to the descendants, now far away, to the conditions of the graves of their ancestors and in and to acquaint them with the knowledge, that means are now in force, should they so desire to contribute, to perpetuate the care of their lots.
Several years ago the Town created a Trust Fund account known as "Elm Vale Cemetery Trust Fund." All donations to said fund to be held in trust by the Town of Waterford and administered by a committee of three, Chairman of Selectmen, Chairman of Cemetery Commissioners and Town Treasurer, the income only to be expended and then under the direction of the Commissioners to perpetuate the care of lots and monuments thereon, of all donors and for the general improvement of the yard.
There are many who may read this article that are interested in this Cemetery and whose lots are in a deplorable condition, would willingly contribute to this fund should they know that this Trust Fund existed.
For further information write to Town Treasurer, Waterford, Maine.

"Old Bill" of Stow Says

Speaking of neglected graves and graveyards I would suggest that the State or County should take them over and tax the heirs or descendants their proportion of the cost and if some are buried or the descendants and heirs are penniless those who are able will help the looks of their own lot by keeping the whole yard in good order for "Order is Heavens first law," and how can you expect to go to heaven if you are laid in a disorderly heap of brush, jumbled tombstones, etc. Of course this plan would be a lot of dressing up before it would be ready to use, only this is a suggestion.
In the first place anyone dying, and leaving property, a certain amount of for such person's lot in the cemetery before the heirs can inherit any part of the estate. This plan would care for nine tenths of the lots and the State could appoint a good man to fix the 10th or Selectmen could do it and tax the cost of those buried there to those who are able to pay.

Then in some of these old neglected yards the bodies would be taken up and re-set.
These old neglected yards to my mind are the greatest disgrace I can think of for someone loved these people in life who are buried in this old pasture and that piece of bushes.

I would suggest to everyone to read "Gray's Elegy on a Country Churchyard" and see if that will set them thinking.
Do you ever think of the sleepers, still. As their resting place you pass. Do you think that somebody's loved lies there Beneath weeds and unkempt grass? 'Tis somebody's father, mother, or friend. Who lies in those sunken graves, While a miniature forest overhead, Its protesting branches waves.
You know how they toiled long years ago. These pioneers brave and true. As they cleared the forest and tilled the land. They sowed, the reapers are—us!
But Nature's debt must be paid by us all. Just stop for a moment and think, my friends. Have you no care for the dead?
Many well known names are recorded there. Of those who centuries ago, Will you lend a hand, my friends, to reclaim. God's Acre in which they lie!

WHY THEY GET AHEAD

A visitor was speaking of the way many Italians and Greeks had gone ahead in their own city, usually in the fruit and candy business. They had started in a very small way, yet within a few years their business had expanded, they were occupying larger stores, delivering their stuff with automobiles, and in one or two cases owning considerable real estate. It seems queer to many observers that these people get ahead, while so many natives are struggling along, barely able to keep their heads above water.

A careful study of such cases will usually show why such people have gone ahead so rapidly. As a rule they work very hard, and keep busy for long hours while other people are playing. Very often their wives and children help them.
Any family that is willing to show equal industry can usually make a success of it.
Of course any line of business calls for good judgement, and people have to cultivate the judgement by close attention to details and effort to learn the trade they are engaged in.

Some people may feel that it is undesirable for men and their families to work these long hours and keep places of business open while others have closed.
If children are being kept out of school and women overburdened, the results are undesirable from the community point of view. But it would probably be found that these folks are looking out pretty carefully to see that their children get a good amount of education, as they are ambitious.

These hard-working people should of course remember that the first thing in life is not to amass money. The thing of first importance is to co-operate with the rest of the community for civic progress and human betterment.

Many people natives as well as aliens, are so intent on gain that they think of nothing else. But in these times when aversion to work is so common, many industrious aliens are an example that natives and old residents could well follow.

DIME LOST FORTY-FIVE YEARS

Several answers have been received in regard to the piece in last week's Advertiser concerning the dime lost forty-five years ago, which asks for the compound interest in that time.
"About the dime lost 45 years ago, I am not going to try to figure out the compound interest on Mr. Paine's dime lost for 45 years but will say if he had invested that dime in Standard Oil at that time, now he would have owned the earth and like J. P. Morgan would be after the rings of Saturn and a mortgage on Mars."—Old Bill, Stow, Me.

Mrs. J. McAllister of West Lovell made the compound interest on the dime belonging to Emma R. Paine of Oxford, who lost forty-five years, $1,197+ (one dollar ninteen cents seven mills plus).

ARBITRATION IS ADVANCING

Definite strides toward realizing, after centuries of agitation, the cause of universal arbitration as a substitute for litigation to settle commercial disputes, are being made. The combined efforts of the United States Department of Commerce, trade groups and bar associations, are beginning to get results in the form of a plan, world wide in its scope, providing for the enactment of a national law and for treaty arrangements to make it effective abroad.

The recent epidemic of cancellations of contracts has been the principal factor which is rallying support to the plan.
Experts say that the temptation to escape the hazards of contract by repudi-ating the contract itself or by seeking refuge in technicalities has been undermining the age-long fundamentals of business intercourse. Arbitration offers an equitable substitute for protracted, expensive and friendship-destroying litigation which will work to its greatest advantage in foreign trade.

Such a law which permits merchants to agree to arbitrate their differences and by which the awards of the arbitration have the force of judicial verdict now exists in the state of New York.
One of the immediate advantages of the new plan is to conserve perishable and semi-perishable food products now going to waste at the rate of millions annually because of trade disputes.

Arbitration, reduced to an understandable term is just plain everyday common sense. Events are forcing it into the social structure steadily and without interruption and decades hence posterity will evince astonishment that this generation so long delayed acceptance. After all, it is merely substituting the voluntary for the involuntary because our civil courts are only arbiters acting for the sovereign in summary fashion and compelling disputants to head their delegate authority. Peaceable methods are always the best and voluntary arbitration comes within that category.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Fred H. Cummings has given away the ducks that have made the Pennessawsee stream back of Mr. Cummings' house their summer home. These birds sporting in the water have been one of our village attractions.

Mrs. Stephen B. Cummings has been ill with jaundice for several days.

Oscar Bennett has given up his milk route. For twenty-five or more years he has supplied milk to the elect few. It was of good quality and worthy of prompt payment. The snow is too deep on Orchard street and the exertion too great to make daily delivery, hence he gave up his customers.

John H. Haselton of Westbrook was a caller on friends last Saturday when en route to Albany where he was to visit relatives. John will be here at the Clerk's Ball next month.

A yellow-brown and black brindled dog with high legs and long tail is visiting in the vicinity of Printing House Square. He is adorned with a leather strap about neck without name of owner, hence he is a ramp dog. If you want him, come and get him. He is a prize for anyone, so says Capt. Sands, and he knows.

Ancient Land Conveyance
Shortie Cook has an old deed. It is of the home place in Windham of his grandmother. It was conveyed Sept. 27, 1832, by Alden and his wife, Eliza Ann Pierce, to Edmond Shaw, lot 48, in the last division of lots in the town of Windham; "it reserves the camps or buildings that may be on said lot." John Everett was the justice of the peace and executed the papers.

There is nothing on the deed showing that it has been recorded.

Good and Bad

In about every kind of merchandise there is good and bad, there is also high and low priced. Some kinds of merchandise are inferior in quality that have a high price attached to them, at other times an article may have a low price and have quality.

RUBBERS

for instance. Now we guarantee the quality of the rubbers that we sell regardless of the price that we get for them. Of course a rubber that we sell for $1.50 will not wear as good as one that we sell for $3.00. However, our rubbers all bear the mark of quality and are all guaranteed according to the price we sell them for.

University of Maine

To the Alumni, Alumnae, Former Students, and Friends of the University of Maine

There is a great new driving force at the University of Maine. There is a spirit of progress; an atmosphere of things happening. This new onward incentive is personified in our new president, Dr. C. C. Little. It is felt alike by the undergraduates, the faculty, the trustees, and all of us who recently have come in contact with the University.

At the beginning of this New Year, we wish to tell you all of the first step in a great long-time program to place this—our University—in a position where it will be of greatly increased service to the State of Maine.

This is a program in which you will all be asked to do your share. It is only by the mutual co-operation of all interested that material progress can be made. That you may have a full understanding of the situation upon which to base your judgment, we propose to place before you in a series of short talks in the press of the State, the present situation and the future opportunities and duties of the University.

After you have this information before you, the immediate call upon your loyalty to the University and to the State will be for the support of a campaign to help build a great new Gymnasium-Armory in memory of the Maine men who gave of their best in the World War.

The University of Maine was represented by 1700 men enrolled in the military and naval forces of the United States. Of these, forty-one were called upon to make the supreme and forever glorious sacrifice of giving their lives.

It seems entirely proper that the first step in this great program of advancement of the institution which they all loved should be a memorial to them.

It is also fitting that this memorial should take the form of a great building in which the students at the University shall receive instruction in physical training and in military science and tactics.

In such a building will be taught team work, individual self-control and discipline and how to play the game.

This building will be built by your efforts and will perpetuate as a living force the spirit that makes duty clear and sacrifice even to death a privilege when the safety of the State and of the Nation is threatened.

This is one of a series of talks prepared by the University of Maine Alumni Memorial Fund Committee to tell the Alumni, Alumnae, Former Students and Friends of the University of its past accomplishments, present needs, and future plans in order that they may be well informed before they are asked to contribute to the fund for a Gymnasium-Armory to be built in memory of the forty-one Maine men who died in the service of their country.

OXFORD COUNTY FINANCES

We copy from the Oxford Democrat the following:
"The County Commissioners and County Treasurer met at the Court House last week and made up the financial statement for the past year. The largest item of expense for the year has been that for permanent bridge construction, $22,390.31, of which more than $17,000 went into the new Androscoggin River bridge at Gilead.

This expense has increased every year since the law took effect, and is one that is beyond the control of the county authorities. As the law stands, any town that will vote to put fifty per cent. into a permanent bridge and can convince the State Highway Commission that such a bridge is needed, can get the state to put in thirty per cent. of the cost of such a bridge. These bridges are all built under the supervision of the State Highway Commission and in direct charge of their engineers. Just how economically the work is done remains a mooted question; the work is advertised for the bids of contractors by the commission after their engineers have made up the plans and specifications; in a case in Grafton after the bids were in, the lowest being made by a Massachusetts firm of contractors, the county commissioners thought the bid so high that they built the bridge themselves, following the same plans and specifications, and it cost the county less than half the lowest bid.

Of the thirty-seven towns and plantations only two are delinquent in paying the county tax for 1922."

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. Nellie Quillon, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.
